Special presentation and planning session; Studer Group on 'What's Right in Education': Schools are organizations that must be on a constant improvement continuum to strive for greater excellence in this time of educational turbulence and constant change. This is more important than ever, as schools are increasingly being impacted by the external forces; there are more fiscal challenges and program changes forced from outside of the organization. Public schools are now in a competitive environment, which magnifies program and facility concerns. School systems must be aligned and focused on providing a great place for students to learn, employees to work, and parents to send their children for an excellent education. An in-depth planning process based on data will allow for better alignment of decisions and to implement effective processes to achieve higher performance levels and a positive climate in our district.
